OPERATING ENVIRONMENT

BY MARK BLAIR - CEO

OPERATING ENVIRONMENT

Heightened global uncertainty led to emerging challenges

GLOBAL

- Geopolitical volatility continued with little sign of resolution
- US trade tariffs threatened global growth forecasts and disrupted trade relations impacting supply chains
- Likelihood of higher inflation across markets

Improving economic position but became susceptible to global and domestic impacts

SOUTH AFRICA

- GNU positively shifted sentiment and growth outlook
- Annual 2024 GDP growth of 0.6% supported by improvement in Q4
  - GNU fragility in early 2025 threatened greenshoots of economic recovery Ο
- Improved energy supply supported business activity
- ZAR/$ stabilised after initial US tariff shock
- Inflation lowered to 2.7% by March 2025 and interest rate cuts of 75bps lowered the repo rate to 7.5%

CONSUMER ENVIRONMENT

PRE TO EARLY 2024: PROLONGED CONSUMER CONSTRAINT

- Weak disposable income levels and declining household expenditure due to:
  - Elevated inflation and interest rates
  - High debt servicing costs Ο
  - Negative real wage growth
- Low consumer confidence

MID 2024 TO EARLY 2025: SHORT-TERM CONSUMER RECOVERY

- Increasing disposable income and household expenditure due to:
  - Lower inflation and interest rates Ο
  - Lower debt servicing costs Ο
  - Two-pot system provided partial relief for consumers Ο
  - Improved real wage growth Ο
- 'Recovery' in consumer confidence until early 2025

2025 TO DATE: TAILWINDS THREATENED BY ONGOING VOLATILITY

- Household expenditure remained stable due to lowering inflation:
  - Bottom end of target range Ο
  - Lower fuel prices 0
  - Two interest rate cuts of 25bps each
- Consumer confidence impacted by US tariff threat and potential local VAT increase
- Lower GDP growth (1.0%) outlook assumes weaker consumer environment approaching

Our differentiated fashion-value and EDLP model, has consistently demonstrated resilience across economic cycles

STRATEGIC EXECUTION | RESILIENT BUSINESS MODEL

Sufficient headroom for growth, supported by:

Strong execution of differentiated fashion-value via EDLP

Defend high market share categories and identified key departments for growth

Remain predominantly cash-based and highly cash generative Opportunity for credit book to grow further

Protect and leverage the Mr Price brand

Space growth opportunities across all 15 trading chains

Extract material sourcing gains from group scale and integration. Take advantage of global supply chain disruption

Investment in strategic enablement reduces risk and creates capacity for further expansion

- Group scale
- Engrained cost discipline
- Efficiencies created through accelerated business process improvement
- Organisational design changes to enhance focus and delivery

Conserve and expand high returns profile to enhance shareholder value

SCALABLE OPPORTUNITIES STRATEGIC RESEARCH

Focus through FY2024 and FY2025

- Research new areas of growth:
  - Where opportunities are scalable and metrics are attractive
  - Evaluated several organic and acquisition opportunities - capital allocation criteria not met
- Established and implementation of guiding principles for future investments

Future focus: FY2026

Dedicated focus on identification of opportunities that will propel the group into its next phase of growth and supporting the achievement of its long-term vision

CAPITAL ALLOCATION

Approach

All investment decisions are thoroughly analysed to ensure capital is directed toward a balanced portfolio of high-return growth vehicles and capacity-building investments

- Long-term investment horizon focusing on the most attractive opportunities
- Improving returns profile potential and scalability remain key
- Revenue and earnings growth are central to group strategy – informs investment decisions
- Stable dividend payout ratio of 63%
- Research to inform capital allocation into new growth vehicles:
  - Acquisitions: level of earnings accretion | Access 0 to new customer or merchandise segment
  - Organic growth: Leverage internal skills and brand halos | Disrupt the market

- Weighted average space growth of 3% 4% | ~200 new stores
- Additional 9% share of Studio 88 paid end May 2025 taking group ownership to 85%

Fixed capital allocation and distribution: FY2025 and FY2026

FY2026 outlook

- Capex of R1.6bn
  - Majority allocated to stores and strategic enablement

STRATEGY AND OUTLOOK

A PROUDLY SOUTH AFRICAN BUSINESS FOCUSED ON IMPACT

OUTLOOK

- 9 July tariff considerations
- Continuity of GNU
- GDP growth: actual vs forecast

Volatile consumer environment

- Short-term relief from additional interest rate cut and lower inflation
- Inflation likely to rise through remainder of the year
- Firm H2 base: two-pot withdrawal and interest rate cuts fueled spending in 2024

Lower input costs

- Negotiated favourable shipping rate contracts to end of 2025
- Hedged ZAR/$ until end of 2025 (merchant certainty)
- Low oil, polyester and cotton prices
- Balance of gross margin opportunity while protecting customers from inflation

Strong sales growth momentum in April and May of 11.6%

- Shift of Easter and school holidays from March to April
- Timely arrival of winter
- Market share gain of 70bps in April (latest available RLC)
- June base of 12.7% due to late arrival of winter in 2024
